

2008 FALL ARTS PREVIEW

Print Email Share
 0 Comments

Smile: The fall theater season is here

By John Moore
Denver Post Theater Critic

Article Last Updated: 09/14/2008 11:50:19 AM MDT

Smile! The fall theater season is here. And so are our 10 recommended plays and musicals to watch.

Get to know a featured actor from each play in this special photo essay by Nathan W. Armes, and get to know their plays in their own words.

You'll also find a special video of each of our featured actors below. They are listed chronologically by opening date.

And look to the upper-right corner for links to our complete, constantly updated lists of upcoming productions by company, by opening date, or by what's current.

Note to readers: Denver Center shows are not included here because each will be advanced with a preview story as each opening approaches.

2008 THEATER SCHEDULES

- Now playing: A rundown of every currently running production in Colorado, with summaries, contact information and web-page links.
- By company: Catch up on what every troupe in Colorado has planned.
- By opening date: A list of every current and upcoming title, listed by opening dates.

MOST READ MOST COMMENTS MOST EMAILED

- Sen. Salazar votes for 'necessary pill'; Allard says no
- Fossett search teams see what looks like wreckage
- Shanahan knows Kiffin's plight

MOST COMMENTED

- Polls: Obama leads in critical trio of states

Natalie Oliver Atherton: New Denver Civic Theatre's "Magdalene, Woman of Light"

"My personal, lifelong affinity with 'The Magdalene' will finally have an opportunity to live and breathe on stage with me as the catalyst to most assist her in her journey." - Natalie Oliver Atherton (Mother Wisdom), most recently Mayme in the Arvada Center's "Intimate Apparel."

The story: After centuries of Mary Magdalene being vilified as a prostitute, this is the true story of her early life and times.

The intrigue: Very few people have cared to do the research to discover the true Magdalene.

Oct. 2-19, 721 Santa Fe Drive, 303-309-3773 or go to the denver civic's home page

